Bay roads may be upgraded

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Bay St. Louis City officials hope to channel $670,000 in state funds to widen Green Meadow Road and upgrade Drinkwater Street.

City Council approved a resolution Tuesday night asking that the roadways be designated as "collector" routes, making them eligible for state and federal program funds.

State officials had earmarked $670,000 for improvements to Blue Meadow Road while the city was in the process of widening a stretch of that route, between Highway 90 and Bay High School.

Since the city financed those improvements independently of the state, however, the state allocation remains available for another project, city officials say. They hope to divert it to improving Green Meadow, which intersects with Blue Meadow. Green Meadow runs into Drinkwater and intersects with Highway 90 at Hancock Medical Center.

Drinkwater also extends across Highway 90, winding up as a small street that connects with Highway 90 at Key West

Public Works Director Ron Vanney said Wednesday the city would have to pay a 20 percent share of upgrading the route, which could become a main feeder roadway from Highway 90 to Bay High School, and the city's upgraded athletic complex behind the school.

Kiln sign returned

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS

The missing city limit sign of Kiln was received by the Hancock County Sheriff's office Wednesday morning.

The sign was located and returned by Watertown, Wisc Police Lt. Timothy Roets. Hancock Chief Deputy Sheriff Nathan Hoda said.

Lt. Roets said he received a telephone call from Capt. Jim Paape of the Brown County Sheriff's Department reporting he knew where a Mississippi community sign was located.

Capt. Paape said he had contacted the Mississippi Department of Transportation and it was confirmed the sign had been stolen from the Kiln community.

Hoda was also contacted by Lt. Roets, who said he knew an individual in Watertown who was in possession of a sign which had the word Kiln in white letters with a green background and was 42 inches wide and 12 inches deep. Hoda confirmed the sign had been recently stolen.

The 18-page Watertown police report arrived at the sheriff's office along with the sign via parcel post on Wednesday.

The report said, "The Wisconsin visitor reportedly stopped at a Kiln bar and reported he was a Packer fan, and since Brett Favre was born there, that is the reason he went there.

"The visitor mentioned he would like a souvenir from the area, and purchased a round for the 'locals,' and one of them left the bar and returned a bit

Bay school board election Saturday

BY RICHARD MEEK

Bay St. Louis-Waveland School Board President Linda Penrose will attempt to retain her seat when she faces Bryon Griffith Saturday in a school board election scheduled in Waveland.

The election hours are 9 a.m.-5 p.m. at Waveland Elementary School.

Penrose has served on the board for 10 years. She faces an expected formidable foe in Griffith, Deputy Director of the Gulf of Mexico Program at Stennis Space Center.

"With 10 years experience on the board, and the knowledge which comes with past negotiations of school contracts, budgets, and student matters over these years, I feel I am the most qualified candidate," said Penrose, who is employed with Johnson Controls World Services Inc.,

at Stennis. "My record speaks for itself as my stand is always for the best we can give our students," she said. "Our students are highest on my priority list."

Penrose and her husband, Norvin, are the parents of five children, all of whom have attended district schools. Their daughter, Belle, is a sophomore at Bay High School, a cheerleader and a member of the Lady Tigers' state runnerup soccer team.

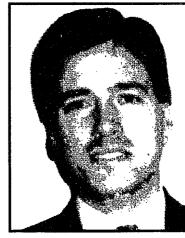

"We have the best students on the Coast," Penrose said.

She pointed to Bay High's Advanced Placement Courses, the Vo-Tech program, and a rise in students' test scores as some of her major accomplish-

County reaction mixed

BY ED LEPOMA

Reaction was mixed Monday night when the Hancock County Planning Commission held the first of four public meetings to get comments on a countywide comprehensive zoning ordinance.

The library at Gulfview Elementary School on Lakeshore Road was jammed with more than 100 citizens, who came to look at the maps on display and to find out how zoning might affect their homes or businesses. All five supervisors were also in attendance at the 7 p.m. meeting. None spoke.

Necaise receives science teaching award

Shani Necaise, Hancock High School biology and science teacher, was selected to receive the 1996 Secondary Science Teaching Award sponsored by the Mississippi Academy of Sciences. She received the award during a two-day event Feb. 22-23 with a special dinner on the evening of Feb. 21 during, the MAS conference in Jackson.

Patricia Biesiot, chair of MAS Award and Resolutions Committee, said, "Ms. Necaise's teaching record is relatively short but is very impressive. The MAS Awards and Resolutions Committee was impressed by her innovative teaching style, which includes the benign use of live animals in the classroom and the teaching of cell and molecular biology topics to her students. We were especially gratified by her history of presenting talks at professional meetings, and we congratulate her on these outstanding achievements."

Necaise received a BS degree in science education from the University of Southern Mississippi in August 1992. While at USM she was inducted into the Gamma Beta Phi Society and was graduated with highest honors. She is currently enrolled in a graduate program at USM, majoring in science education with emphasis in

She is a member of the Mississippi Academy of Sciences, National Science Teacher Association, Mississippi Science Teacher Association, Mississippi American Federation of Teachers and the National Association of Biology Teachers.

Necaise has been a participant, presenter and/or workshop coordinator for the Hancock County Professional Development Academy for math and science teachers since 1992. She presented at the Indianola Staff Development Conference in 1995. In 1994 she presented at the National Science Teacher Association (NSTA) Convention, Linking Humanities with Science, and the Mississippi Academy of Science (MAS) on the General Care and Maintenance of Green Iguanas.

In 1993 she presented at the National NSTA Convention, Linking Science with Industry; the MAS, Implementation of Tapestry Grant with Science Curriculum, and participated in the NSTA Regional Convention in Orlando, Fla. In 1992 she conducted a staff development session on the Effect of Personality in the Classroom. She also presented Marine Discovery, sponsored by USM and the Marine Discovery summer science camp.

During her teaching career she has attended numerous conferences, coordinated the HHS Science and Engineering Fair, judged state and regional science and engineering fairs, trained with Zenger Miller leadership for Tech Prep, as well as sponsoring the HHS Dance Team since 1992 and sponsoring the varsity cheerleaders during the 1993-94 school year.

Support proposed tourism tax

Hancock County is indeed at a financial crossroad. Casino gaming, once perceived to be the county's financial elixir, has not had the same economic impact as in neighboring Harrison County.

Recently released figures show unemployment in Hancock County to be near, or above pre-casino days. And all government entities are crunching figures at budget time.

Certainly both Casino Magic and the Bayou Caddy's Jubilee/Jubilation have proven to be good neighbors. But the loss of a combined 200 jobs at the casinos in the past two weeks illustrates the precariousness of employment in the gaming industry.

With that setting serving as a backdrop, the county's business and political leaders gathered at the new Holiday Inn last week to discuss this area's economic future. The round table discussion produced two profound messages. one disheartening, the other positive.

The smaller than expected turnout from business leaders was discouraging. There can really be no plausible explanation for the pathetic showing, other than apathy from business owners who complain about lack of business and demand the county's and cities' fathers take action to increase tourism.

The input of the business community is valued and needed. Their lack of support for this forum was inexcusable.

On a much more positive note, those attending did agree that a two percent room, food, beverage and RV tax is needed in Hancock County. They are correct.

It is imperative the county rally around this idea. For passage of this tax may be as important to this area as revenue dollars generated in the French Quarter are to

The tax will only be imposed on motels and those restaurants serving beer or other alcohol. In other words, fast food restaurants will be exempt, thereby posing no added burden on county citizens who utilize those establishments.

Some restaurant owners are justifyably weary of the proposed tax. They fear a potential decrease in business. But the antithesis will be realized. The monies generated from the tax are targeted to fund a newly created tourism bureau, with a director whose only job will be to recruit the tourism dollar to Hancock County. This may come in the form of conventions, athletic tournaments, or more likely, the enormously popular and financially lucrative motor

If the tourism director is effective, then the concerns of restaurateurs will be proven as cash registers ring up the increased business. The proposed tax is a time-proven concept, and with the amenities Hancock County has to offer, there is no reason why it cannot have the same economic stimulus here as it has had in other places.

Consider that the tourism budget for Harrison County and Jackson County each exceed $2.5 million, with the funding coming from similar taxes. Even Tupelo has a budget of $1.5 million.

Surely, it is not a stretch to suggest that Hancock County has more to offer to visitors than Tupelo. No longer can county leaders rely on gaming to fill government coffers. Although casino gambling is not the debacle it has been in New Orleans, it is also not the windfall many predicted. Other revenue-producing ideas must be vigorously developed, explored and pursued.

The proposed tax has many legal hoops to jump through before becoming law, the most significant coming in the state legislature. If there can be such a thing, this is a good

Fleuriet cries "fowl"

Dear Editor:

Two weeks ago I read an article written about me in unfavorable (unsurprising) terms. This was about what you called a "chicken dispute" in my neighborhood.

As an alderman, I spend much of my time listening to and helping people in my community with problems. As the Echo knows, but never reports, I make constant suggestions for refurbishing budget procedures, income production and cost reduction in our city

Your writer, Mr. Meek, never seems to crow about this. He seems too busy, himself. scratching up anything he can find to try to tar and feather me. Editor, sometimes I get madder than a wet hen. Regarding the chicken dispute, I made numerous attempts by talking to all parties and Animal Control to work this matter out. You know we have many weekend residents in the Bay-Waveland area, and we full-timers consider them our neighbors, too.

However, do I murder neighborhood pets because one neighbor doesn't like them? Waveland is the "Hospitality City," where people are flexible and work things out between themselves.

I believe the real problem in this instance is that one of our neighbors has made his mind up and nothing less than exactly what he wants will do.

Our neighbor says that Mayor Mason has been helpful and accomplished a lot to assist him with his chicken problem. But, the chickens are still right where they've been, longer than many neighborhood residents. Remember, who came first, the chickens, the neighbor or the mayor?

The people in my ward like Waveland other. Birds of a feather flock together.

What may not be as exciting, but what really gets the results, is when the people in a community work together for the betterment of the community.

I'm sure our little chicken problem could be solved if we'd just all work together instead of working against each other maybe we could have a picnic maybe we could all have fried . . Well, you know.

Reader feels Colonial outlet a community need

To the Editor,

By now most everybody in the Bay St. Louis-Waveland area is aware that Taconi's Hardware and Colonial Bakery outlet are closing their doors very soon.

I shop at both stores and am sorry to see this happen, as Taconi Hardware is a landmark.

While shopping at the Colonial Bakery I notice a lot of senior citizens who shop there. Occasionally I talk with them and ask them to voice their concerns about the closing.

The most common response is: "I shop there because the bread is fresh and the price is within my fixed budget," or "I'm on food stamps, but I can buy snacks for my kids out of pocket change.

That little bakery store helps a lot of people in many ways. After talking with the store clerk she said that Colonial Bakery will reopen providing that someone is willing to lease them a building or build to

They are taking names at the store in hopes that the bakery will reopen elsewhere in town.

We need the support of the community to help this little store that helps so many others. Please sign their list and help them find a new location.

Sincerely, Antoine Boyd Bay St. Louis

A school board election is set Saturday for the qualified electors residing in Waveland and adjoining area within the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District.

The area has two representatives on the school board of five in the district, and they are elected at alternate times with one slot on the ballot Saturday.

The election is scheduled from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and will be held at the Waveland Elementary School, St. Joseph Street, Waveland.

There are two candidates in the race, incumbent Linda Penrose and Bryon Griffith.

Those residing in Waveland and the outside area (not in Bay St. Louis) of the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District, who are qualified electors, need to remind themselves and neighbors of the importance of voting Saturday.

Be sure to vote for the candidate of your choice.

On Tuesday, Donald Julian Waddell, 97, was laid to rest in Bay St. Louis.

Records indicate he was the last surviving World War I veteran in Hancock County who was a member of the Bay St. Louis, Waveland or Standard American Legion Posts.

The contributions of veterans, like Mr. Waddell and others from World War II, Korea, Vietnam, etc., to this nation appears to be losing importance.

America needs to wake up and remember those who put their lives on the line for our freedom.

I did not know Mr. Waddell very well, but I feel his family should know his services to this country are appreciated.

To his family and friends, I wish them all the best in years to come, and I thank him for his loyalty to our nation.

Congratulations are in order for the St. Stanislaus basketball team on reaching the quarter-finals in state

It was the first time since the early 1940's for a Stanislaus team to go so far in state competition in basketball.

Who knows, St. Stanislaus may be returning to the glory days of sports it so much cherished during the later part of the past and early part of this century.

Just a week ago the Rocks captured a first-ever state championship in soccer.

Many of old grads are wondering if good things will be happening with the football program at St. Stanislaus again.

Who knows, there may even be another Felix (Doc) Blanchard around to carry the school to great achievements once again in football.

Just in case you do not know it, Blanchard, a St. Stanislaus graduate, was an All-American in football at Army in 1945.

As far as I know, he is the only person ever to win the Heisman, Sullivan and Maxwell awards in the same

Buck Stevens plants seeds for St. Petersburg exhibit

When thousands of school children and other visitors come to Jackson and marvel at the splendors of the Palaces of St. Petersburg exhibit the next four months, they can thank a spunky small-town pharmacist from Clinton for bringing the Russian treasures here. And no small measure of credit for this cultural coup goes also to several people at the University Medical Center in Jackson, who provided a key link in the amazing chain of events which led to Jackson landing the exhibit. Over 600 priceless treasures, together with replications of five palace rooms from the reign of the Romanovs have been brought here. They've never been on the road before. In fact, they have never been outside Russia, underscoring how remarkable this exhibition is.

But how Mississippi and Jackson became the unlikely host to the Imperial treasures of Russia is an incredible tale of an obscure Clinton pharmacist named Buck Stevens, who believes big dreams can come true.

To go back briefly, Stevens had become intrigued with the idea of extending a helping hand to St. Petersburg when a group of Russian children came to sing on the steps of the state Capitol on "Prayer Day" of 1992. The upshot was that Stevens set up Mississippians Reach Out, a nonprofit organization.

Subsequently, Stevens made the acquaintance of Dr. Yuri Zubkov, a neurosurgeon from St. Petersburg, who was on study at the University Medical Center in Jackson at the time. From Zubkov, Stevens learned about some of the great needs for modern medicines and medical equipment at the doctor's large hospital in St. Petersburg, a city the size of Chicago.

One day in late 1992, Dr. Wally Conerly, vice chancellor for UMC, got a phone call from Stevens, whom he had never met. "How can we get a CAT scanner for the hospital in St. Petersburg . . . they don't have one?" Stevens asked.

Connerly could have shrugged off the call as a nuisance, but he didn't. He said he would have his chief of radiology at UMC, Dr. Brent Harrison, to see what he could do.

Harrison had excellent contracts at General Electric, and after a few months of jawing,

This fun-filled day of track and field competition could not be held without the many volunteers and sponsors and who give their time and donations to make this a memorable day for the athletes, said Becky Rotundo, SSC's 1996 Special Olympics coordinator.

'Volunteers are the backbone of the day's activities," she said. "They run events, work with athletes, provide entertain-ment and perform many behind-the-scenes functions." Volunteers who work with athletes accompany athletes to their events, shout encouragement to them during the games and give and receive many bear hugs and beaming smiles.

"My husband and I volunteered last year and had such a good time with the athletes that we're going back again this year," said Margaret Prevou of Bay St. Louis.

Many civic organizations sponsor athletes, which pays for t-shirts for the sponsor and the athlete, the athlete's meal and medals.

Please use the volunteer form in today's paper. For information on sponsoring an athlete, call Becky Rotundo at (601) 688-5328 between 8:30 a.m. and

Alcorn to offer loans

The Small Farm Development Center at Alcorn State University will offer loans and grants to small farmers and to non-profit cooperatives and organizations through its Small Farm Loan/Grant Program. The program has received state-funds, appropriated by the Mississippi Legislature in the amount of $250,000 to be used for this purpose.

A small farmer may borrow up to $15,000 through this program. These are production loans, and can be used for crop and livestock enterprises. These loans are secured loans that farmers must agree to pay back by the end of the production year.

Farmers must meet eligibility requirements to qualify. The loans are interest-free, Entrants are not limited to casino employees. All adults who are interested may compete.

In the "Baghead Oyster Sack Race," two team members will be blind-folded and wear an oyster sack over their heads. Each member will be guided only by vocal directions through an obstacle course of cones. (25 points for first place; 20 points for second; 15 points for third; 10 points for fourth; and 5 points for fifth place.)

Another competition will be "Shuck, Serve and Slurp," wherein one team member shucks one dozen oysters, while another places oysters (on the half shell) on a tray surrounded by Tabasco bottles. A runner carries the tray, one-handed, through the course without tipping over any bottles or spilling oysters from shells. Bottles and oysters deduct points.

A "slurper" consumers oysters and two packages of saltine crackers, whistles for a judge, and the runner returns the tray with bottles back to the shucker. The game then continues for a possible 36 ponts.

The third game will be the "Card, Chip and Shell Toss," for a possible 39 points, each team member is given 13 playing cards to toss into an oyster tray, 13 gaming chips to toss into an oyster sack and 13 oyster shells to toss into a bushel basket.

The Oyster Festival, a Gulf Coast tradition, will be March 14-17 at Point Cadet Plaza in Biloxi. Constant live music and events, arts and crafts vendors, carnival rides and a mouthwatering menu will highlight the event. The festival is a major fund raiser for the Boys and Girls Clubs of the Gulf Coast and is expected to draw over 10,000 people. For information or to reserve booth space, call 374-2330.

Green Meadow, he said, is in "dire need" of improvements as it stands, even without having to bear additional traffic.

In other business Tuesday, Mayor Eddie Favre told council he's had contractors put on notice that he's not satisfied with the quality of paving on Old Spanish Trail. The patchwork was done after workers installed new sewer lines in the Vanney said the contractor is negotiating with a subcontractor concerning the work.

In other matters, council was assured that Gulf Coast Recyclying -- under new ownership -will continue services in the city. City Attorney John Scafide said the contract the city holds with Gulf Coast is transferable from the non-profit organization which began it, to the executive director, who is purchasing the firm.

A spokeswoman for the company told council its name would remain the same, and service would be improved. Plans call for expanding the kinds of products collected for recycling.

Gulf Coast Recycling's board of directors voted to cease operations at the end of February.

Zoning Hearings

The Hancock County Planning Commission plans two more hearings next week to get public comment on the proposed countywide zoning ordinance. Both begin at 7 p.m each evening.

Monday night the meeting will be held at Hancock North Central Elementary School, 6122 Cuevas Town Road, off Hwy. 603, past Kiln.

Wednesdy night, the meeting will take place at Hancock High School, on Airport/Stennis Road, off Hwy. 603.

St. Petersburg

GE offered to sent a CAT scanner (worth about $2 million) free of charge to the Russian hospital in St. Petersburg. The unit was installed last year by a UMC team.

Stevens, in awe, made three trips to St. Petersburg, the first one in early 1993, with Dr. Harrison and Dr. Bob Smith from UMC, along with several others.

On his second trip in 1994, after seeing the sparkling Imperial treasures in the palace-museums, Stevens, with good ole Mississippi naivete', suggested to some of the local authorities that it "sure would be nice" if other people in Mississippi could see them.

The seed was thereby planted and "we had become a known entity over there," says Stevens. And "because we were very, very persistent," he and a group of other Jacksonians who moined the effort were able to pull it off and get the Russians to send the exhibition. Many other cities would have given their eye teeth for them.

The next major role in getting the whole deal nailed down ar picking out the prized possessions that would be sent, was played by Jack Kyle, the Memphis impressario, hired by Stevens and his nonprofit group as their negotiator. Kyle already had strong credentials by bringing major exhibitions of art treasures to Memphis.

"It there is a message here," Stevens, 54, says, "it is that you can dream great dreams and see them come true." No longer in his Clinton drug store, Stevens is now director of the state Board of Pharmacy.

In all of their glittering splendor, five Romanov-era rooms from St. Petersburg's palacemuseums have been replicated by hundreds of artisans and transported to the Mississippi Arts Pavilion downtown. Displayed are over 600 Imperial treasures which were shipped here, together with eight and one-half tons of detailed flooring.

As author Eudora Welty told the New York Times the other day, the St. Petersburg exhibition is the biggest thing that has happened to Jackson since paved roads.

Not incidentally, about three miles away at University Medical Center, which helped bring it all about, there are some big things going on.

Forty years after the state medical school was established in an agonizing, momentous legislative battle, the center is undergoing its biggest building and renovating program, at a cost of $134 million. Six new buildings and two parking garages, plus renovations of old facilities, are under way.

Together with the economic impact from the St. Petersburg Palaces exhibition, and the UMC building program the economy in the Mississippi state capital is going to be humming.

The latest version, drafted by the Southern Mississippi Planning and Development District, was presented to supervisors last March, but no public hearings were scheduled on it since three of five incumbent supervisors opted not to seek reelection.

John Scafide, attorney to the planning commission, told the audience supervisors commissioned the SMPDD to undertake the drafting of a countywide zoning plan in 1989 due to the increase in population that started in Hancock County in the late 1960s.

"From 1960 to 1970, the county experienced a 24 percent increase in population; from 1970 to 1980, the population grew by 40 percent; and from 1980 to 1990, the growth was 30 percent," said Scafide.

He said the population boom, coupled with the fact that large chunks of land in Hancock County has already been taken up by the giant Stennis Space Center and by wetlands, made it necessary for the county to "chart a plan to guide develop-ment that would take us into the next 25 to 30 years."

Scafide said the original zoning plan was completed by December of 1991, but was never acted on by supervisors.

Hessell said planners made a "windshield survey" of existing land use in Hancock County, noting recent population and growth trends that have taken place before coming up with this final draft version of the zoning plan last March.

He reiterated supervisors' comments that "nothing is written in stone.' "Those (zoning) lines may be drawn and redrawn two or three times before the plan goes before supervisors for final vote," said Hessell. Before the meeting, citizens who wanted to comment were asked to sign in listing their names and addresses, and whether they wanted to speak or just submit comments in writing. Speakers were limited to two minutes.

Some complained that the maps on display weren't large enough for them to pick out their particular neighborhood. They wanted individual copies of the map showing the seven proposed zoning designations, but were told they were expensive to reproduce, but a copy was available at the county courthouse in Bay St. Louis. The speakers for and against were evenly divided with at least three people asking supervisors to put zoning to a county-wide vote. "I want a vote on it," said Frank Klein Jr., of Clermont Harbor. "We live in a democracy. Don't ram this down our throats." Others calling for a referendum included businessman Tommy Bordages and former supervisor Jerry Ladner.

Hessell, during the presentation, noted that almost 90 percent of the county would be zoned "A-1 Agricultural," taking into account the rural makeup of the county. He said it was "the most liberal of the proposed zonings, and allows what's there to exist.'

But, Ray Burkart, who owns land on Lower Bay Road in Ansley, said, "A-1 should be modified, if not eliminated."

He claimed the classification would actually limit the use of the land; thus decrease the value of his property.

ride such a veto.

"We want laws that don't restrict the use of our property," said Burkhart.

Scafide explained that there are a large number of "conditional uses" that would be allowed in the "A-1" category. He said citizens would simply come before the planning commission to explain what they planned, and if neighbors don't object, the conditional use would probably be approved.

"We're not trying to put you all in a straight jacket," said Scafide.

Leila Thissell, from Diamondhead, commended the planning commission and the Board of Supervisors "for their vision" in attempting to pass a countywide zoning ordinance.

She said she lived in Bay St. Louis 40 years ago, and recently moved back into the area. She remembered as a child, "when crabs would pick at my feet dangling in the water.

"I don't see crabs anymore," said Thissell. "I don't see the beauty of the landscape. I see clutter, dirty and contaminated water. I don't see what I saw in my youth. I see abuse of the

She urged citizens to support

"Come out of the Dark Ages and move forward," she said. James Chillingston from Lakeshore warned that zoning was "a double-edged sword."

He said he was a lawyer, formerly from Michigan, and he represented his wife and other clients who had zoning problems there.

Chillingston said his wife, a practicing physician, sought a conditional use so she could practice medicine out of her home.

"We fought it and beat it," he said, adding that, for others, it might be too expensive to hire a lawyer needed for the process.

But, Larty Peterson supported zoning, and she said she has watched the process where citizens can apply for a waiver or conditional use. She said she has attended zoning hearings in Bay St. Louis, "and people were treated fairly."

Peterson said she owns 10 acres, "and, I don't want a dump near my home.

"Our only investment in our future is our homes," she said. Violet Fricke, who lives on Webster Street in Bayside Park, said she was on television over the weekend, complaining about a neighbor who is raising hogs next door to her. She said, "the stench is so bad, I can't sit on my porch, and my children can't play in the yard." She said, "It's not fair for the animals to live like that or for the neighbors."

Fricke said food for the hogs is "stacked up in boxes and rotting, and everything is seeping into the ground."

Fricke said she approached the county health department and other government agencies, and was told "there was nothing they could do about this."

She said she would support zoning if it would help her situation.

Wade Nation said he raises cows, "So, now, I guess I need to diaper them." He said "a lot of questions weren't answered" in the presentation, "so I can't support this."

Nation also raised the question whether taxes would be raised due to the county adopting a zoning ordinance.

Scafide said, "No taxes will go up due to zoning changes. Property is assessed based on its use.

Your taxes will go up only if you change the use of your property."

Sherman Necaise said he was also against zoning. He said Bayside Park's problems developed because lots were sold for $100 each.

"You're missing the whole point (of zoning)," said Necaise. "We elected five people up there to allow us (as to) what we can

James J. Jobert, who said he lived off Lower Bay Road, said,

"Something needs to be done." He complained that he has spent $3,500 on his own sewerage treatment plant, "but right down the road there is a junk yard with trash piled up and oil seeping into the ground all the

Mavis Newell told the audience she and her husband sunk their life savings in property and a home in Pass Christian three miles north of Interstate-10, and fought "for three years" to keep the Pecan Grove Landfill out of her area, to no avail.

"Now, they are coming in with 900 tons of garbage out of New Orleans every day."
Newell said, "We've now bought over here. It (the landfill) destroyed our lives. Everything we built for 17 years.

"If we had zoning, this would not have happened," she said." Laekshore property owner Jim Maness also supported some kind of zoning.

"We want better things for our children than we had ourselves," said Maness. "Unrestricted activity pits neighbors against neighbors."

Maness said zoning would increase property values because it would restrict what could be built in someone's neighborhood "and your children could borrow on that for their future."

He commended, "the planning commission for attempting to put us into a civilized society."

Plans are for the planning commission to hold two more public meetings next Monday and Wednesday, then adjust the zoning maps to address residents' concerns.

Planners hope to have a final draft of the zoning proposal ready to present to supervisors at their April 15 meeting.

Supervisors would probably scheduled a final public hearing for April 30 at the County Courthouse before taking action on the proposal.

years of discussion and debate. "What is it going to take for us to finally adopt a comprehensive plan with a land use map?" asked council president Tad Black, after presiding over yet another debate session where council members stressed their particular dislikes of the plan.

At the insistence of Council member James Thriffiley, council agreed that each member should obtain a large copy of the latest land use map proposal, and revise it as they would like to see it passed.

Then, votes could come on each segment of the proposal. At issue is a 25-year planning document that suggests future land uses, transportation improvements, and a capital improvements outline.

But most of the debate has centered on lines on the map which will serve as the basis for future zoning in the city.

The particular map on council's table Monday came from the administration, as a revised alternative to the official plan that consultants drew up months ago. City officials had hoped by generalizing the map, council would find it less controversial and more palatable.

While the generalizations may have quelled some debate, there were key sticking points remaining:

--The mayor is insistent that the Cedar Point waterfront area that was annexed along with Casino Magic's holdings in 1990 be designated foor "resort" uses, which presumably would allow location of a second casino operation there. That's in accord with a pre-annexation agreement the city signed concerning the so-called "Kinst" property.

Some citizens in the area, however, have been adamant that the city has all the casino it needs -- they want the area zoned for residential uses only.

Mayor Eddie Favre has threatened to veto any action council takes that violates the up at Monday's meeting to emphasize their views again. We're concerned. We don't want a factory and a trade school in here. We are people too," said Max Elrod, a Pecan Park Drive resident. "We don't like it. We don't want it there," he said of the proposed usage. --Multi-family designations on the administration's proposed map also drew objections, although planner Les Fillingame sought to assure the meeting that careful scrutiny would be given to individual zoning requests for apartments, con-dominiums and other multipleresidential dwellings. --Proposed designation of

Main Street as a community commercial area also drew objections. The Bay St. Louis Community Association went on record opposed to that move, saying the area from Toulme to St. Francis-Dunbar streets is "a beautiful residential area with many scenic oaks and provides a quaint, old-town appearance to anyone approaching from the highway."

With the amdinistration's plan under heavy fire. Fillingame urged council to decide what it wants to do -- and take action. Fillingame said the map could easily be amended later, but lack of adoption of a plan and a map has stalled other key city actions.

Officials can't zone the city's vast, annexed areas until such a plan is in effect, for instance. Nor can the city enact a historic preservation ordinance or revise its existing zoning code. "We really need to get this behind us," said Fillingame of the initial step: adopting a comprehensive plan.

Farve and council member James Rutherford missed Monday's meeting to attend an honors banquet at Bay High School.

Krewe of Diamondhead visits "Legends of Old"

The 21st annual ball of the Krewe of Diamondhead was held on Saturday, Feb. 10 at the Grand Casino Hotel in Gulfport, with the theme of "Legends of Old".

Reigning over the ball were King Ali'i Honua XXI Berlon Dennis and Queen Alice Faye Burkhardt.

The monarch wore a white fitted gown, heavily trimmed in beading and gold rhinestone applique designs. Her purple and green mantle was trimmed with fur and featured a design depicting the comedy and tragedy masks. Under the masks, the crest of the krewe was embellished in gold sequins. Her elaborate collar was heavily decorated in stones. Her majesty's royal attire was completed by an imported rhinestone crown and scepter.

Attendant to her majesty was her grand-daughter, Miss Tiffany Boudreaux of St. Rose, Louisiana

The king's mantle matched the queen's. His majesty's royal attire was completed by a crown and rhinestone scepter.

Attendants to his majesty were his son, Mr. Scott Dennis and Miss Lori Morris of Hartsville, Ala.

The royal court maids, dressed in sequin gowns, were Mrs. Jacque' Rosenhauer, Ms. Charlotte Hofmann-Inzinna, Mrs. Betty Reddock and Mrs. Joy Cobena.

Dukes were Mr. Harold Marshall, Dr. Paul Richards, Mr. Harvey Comfort and Mr. Lynn Cobena.

The captain of the gala was Benny Mistretta. His purple velvet cape was garnished with the krewe's crest in gold sequins.

The ball theme revolved around what is old is new and young again. On each table was a colorful flower arrangement with the fountain of youth in the middle. Officers of the Krewe of Diamondhead are Mistretta, captain; Mr. Jerry Reshew, president; Mr. Jerry Bourg, treasurer; Mrs. Nell Dennis, secretary; Mr. Chris Arnos, parade lieutenant; Mr. Henry Burkhardt, social lieutenant; Mr. Henry Kibler, ways and means lieutenant; and Mrs. Hilda L. Bourg, publicity lieutenant.

Special recognition was given to Rose Hobbs for her artistic talent in decorating the royal float each year. She was presented with a plaque by the parade lieutenant.

Past krewe monarchs attending the ball were 1976 King Joe Salvatore; 1980 Queen Lee Fredian; 1983 Queen Hilda L. Bourg; 1984 King Jerry Bourg and Queen Lorraine Heier; 1985 King Vincent Almerico, Sr. and Queen Ann Neff; 1986 King Tom Satterlee and Queen Laura Almerico; 1987 Queen Maealys Swartzendruber; 1988 King Charles Johnson, Sr. and Queen Elizabeth Clag-gett; 1989 Queen Dot Hoskins; 1990 King Ro-nald Bankston and Queen Linn Godard; 1991 King Ted Godard and Queen Evelyn Kibler; 1992 King Jerry Reshew and Queen Gertrude Wadington; 1993 King Paul Snemyr and Queen Gisela Rainey; 1994 King Bill Bahner and Queen Billie Bahner and 1995 King Henry Kibler and Queen Lou Lamendola.

Honored guests were Mr. and Mrs. David Nelson from Birmingham, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. Theo Allen from Gainesville, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Burkhardt from Gulfport, son of the queen; Mr. and Mrs. Steven Burkhardt, son of the queen; and Mr. and Mrs. Collins Benoit from Beaumont, Tex., brother of the queen.

Music was provided by Bobby Ohler from New Orleans. Reshew was the master of ceremonies.

Serving on the decoration committee were Mrs. Nell Dennis, Mrs. Eileen Zeringue, Mrs. Gisela Rainey and Mrs. DeLores Glazier.

BETWEEN THE LINES

By Richard Meek

What amounts to nothing more than a giant hole in the ground serves as a grim reminder of Nov. 12, a night forever imbedded in the minds of Diamondhead County Club members. It was then that the country club burned in a spectacular blaze that could be seen for

But soon rising from the carnage will be a new $2.8 million facility that promises to better serve the changing needs of the club's diverse membership. The new club consumes the majority of nearly $4 million in improvements Diamondhead has targeted for the year.

"Out of every negative comes a positive," said Diamondhead Property Owners' Association General Manager Paul Montjoy. "We're excited about this opportunity.

Included in the club's plans for this year are renovation of the greens on the front nine of the Cardinal Course, construction of two new tennis courts at Tennis World, a new swimming pool at Holiday Village, restrooms either added or remodeled at the camper site, the golf courses, and the yacht club, and paving and draining improvements throughout the subdivision.

But the showpiece will be the country club, a 21,000-squarefoot facility that will feature a ballroom with dining-style seating for 300 and theatre-style seating for 600. Chris Consultant, Inc., has been selected as architects for the facility.

Chris Consultant has com-

Diamondhead rebuilds

pleted master plans and designed or remodeled more than 300 country clubs. Their resume includes renovations at New Orleans Country Club, Country Club of Jackson, Colonial Country Club in Memphis and Gleneagles and Preson Trail Golf Club in Dallas.

We were fortunate to be able to hire such an experienced architect," Montjoy said.

Montjoy said a "town meeting" has been scheduled at Diamondhead on March 7 at 7 p.m. at Diamondhead Academy, where architect H.J. Chris will present plans to the club's members. Final approval to proceed will be given by the P.O.A. board within two days following the meeting, Montjoy said.

He added complete construction documents will be completed by April 26, and that construction should begin by late May. He said construction should take about a year.

Renovations of the greens on the Cardinal Course are slated to begin March 24, and completed by August. Last summer, the back nine greens were renovated.

Other golf improvements include the installation of target greens on the driving range and purchase of tee signs for all 36 holes.

Tennis World will sport 10 tennis courts once the two new courts are completed.

Congratulations to St. Stanislaus basketball coach Jay Ladner and the Rock-A-Chaws for an amazing season. The Rocks won the District 7, Class 4A, which came as little surprise, but to advance to the state quarterfinals surprised most

The highlight of the season came last Saturday night when SSC stunned highly-touted Stone County in the consolation game of the South State Tournament. After offering little resistance to West Jones on Friday night, it appeared the Rocks would be mere fodder for

But Ladner regrouped his team, and the Rocks earned their first appearance in Jackson in some 50 years. Unfortunately, SSC played perhaps its worst game of the year in the voluminous Coliseum. Stanislaus was never in it after the first several minutes. The game was kept relatively close only due to the undiscipline of the Indians, who will have to play much better to defeat West Jones.

What has to be frustrating to Ladner is that he knows the Rocks have defeated better teams this year. Even an average performance by the Rocks, especially Brian Thigpen, Terry Lawyer and Matt Kopfler may have turned defeat into victory.

But credit Ladner for an outstanding season. He took his team to a place where no Rock team had visited for 50 years. Hang It Up

Ship Island boat excursions

"Regularly scheduled excursion boat services to Ship Island will begin spring operations Saturday, March 2," said Superintendent Jerry Eubanks.

Pan Isles Inc. of Gulfport is the official concessioner for the United States Department of the Interior, National Park Service, to provide daily passenger ferry service from the mainland to Ship Island.

"This service is provided so the public will have access to the recreational and historical resources located on Ship Island, a part of Gulf Islands National Seashore," said Eubanks.

The round trip fare for riding the excursion boat is $14 for adults and $7 for children ages 3-10. Children under 3 ride free.

A one-way boat trip to the island takes about one hour. Season tickets and discounts for groups, seniors and military are available. Private group charters are offered year round from Biloxi and Gulfport.

Visitor facilities on the island include accessible restrooms and showers, pavilions with picnic tables and a concession snack bar.

Chairs, umbrellas, rafts and boogie boards are available for rent. The Ship Island dock repairs from hurricane damage have been made. The dock is now open for visitor use. Ship Island is the location of Fort Massachusetts, a historic brick fortification. Persons planning to visit are reminded that glass 875-9057. containers are prohibited on the The excursion will depart from the Gulfport Harbor, Hwy. 90 at Hwy. 49 March through October. Pan Isles Inc. also offers a shuttle service to East Ship Island for campers and day trippers on weekends throughout the spring and fall and daily during the summer

Arrangement for shuttle service and group charters must be made in advance by calling (601) 864-3797. For information on the excursion boat and other facilities available call

USM to sponsor seminar

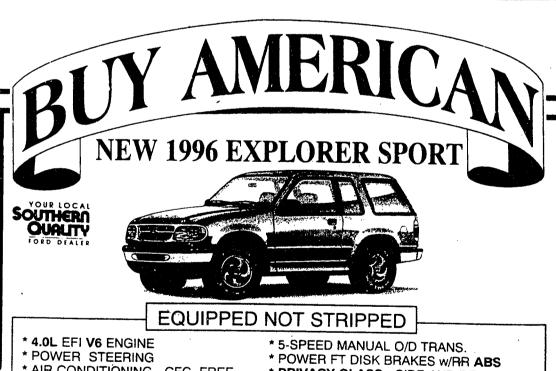

Civic officials can learn about developing their communities as a retirement destination in an upcoming seminar co-sponsored by the University of Southern Mississippi.

USM will offer the seminar from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. March 7 at the Ramada Coliseum in Jackson. The seminar is cosponsored by Hometown Mississippi, a retirement group.

The seminar will focus on meeting retirees' continuing education needs by setting up elderhostel programs such as the existing Institute for Learning in Retirement, sponsored by USM. Studies show that continuing education is a priority for retirees considering relocation options.

Participants will hear about the national perspective on institutes for learning in retirement, how such institutes may benefit their communities, what retirement programs exist in Mississippi and Louisiana, how to develop an institute for learning in retirement, and how colleges and communities can work together in such endeavors.

For more information, call USM's Department of Continuing Education at (601)

BY RICHARD MEEK Emotions spoke volumes as a tearful Jay Ladner hugged his standout center Terry Lawyer one final time.

Moments earlier, St. Stanislaus had finally succumbed to Yazoo City, 72-45, in the Class 4A state semifinals at the Coliseum in Jackson, ending the Rock-A-Chaws' magical run in the playoffs.

It was not the finale Ladner had scripted. The Rocks, who had stunned highly-touted Stone County Saturday in triple overtime in the South State Tournament, never led, as they fell behind 7-0 early, and trailed 30-15 at the end of the first half.

SSC shot only 20 percent in the first half, committed 14 turnovers, and scored only six second quarter points.

"I think the kids came out a little bit tight," Ladner said after a lengthy post-game mortem with his team.

"But I'm proud of my guys," he added. "The seniors are 72-32 in their three years and two district championships.

To get here is amazing. They hung in there and fought back. We pulled off some big upsets." But not against the Indians, 36-1. After Yazoo City's early run, SSC, 29-10, cut the lead to 11-9 at the 2:30 mark of the first quarter on Lawyer's tip-in. But the Indians answered with a 14-4 run to take a 25-13 lead with 2:25 left in the first Offensively, the Rocks buried themselves in a bevy of bad passes, careless turnovers, and numerous missed easy shots. SSC scored only nine points in the game's first 11 minutes. Lawyer, who struggled despite scoring a game-high 22 points, was the only Rock to score in the second quarter.

An outstanding season

St. Stanislaus completed an outstanding season with a 72-45 loss to Yazoo City in the state quarterfinals Tuesday at the Coliseum in Jackson. The Rocks won the District 7,4A title and finished with a 29-10 record. Pictured, kneeling (L-R): Brian Thigpen, Kelton Thompson and Maurice Singleton. Standing (L-R): Jay Lea, Chris McQueen, Correy Gex, Terry Lawyer, Corey Charles, Matt Kopfler, Matt Roth, Mike Magee, Mila Fenasci and coach Jay Ladner.

Only two other players — Maurice Singleton, on two free throws and Kelton Thompson, on a three-pointer — scored for SSC in the first half.

Lawyer's frustration began to show in the second quarter with unforced turnovers and missed opportunities on easy shots. He also was taken out of his game by the quicker Indians and forced to play fronting the basket, which is not the strength of his game.

"(Lawyer) struggled," Ladner said. "We were able to get the ball to him easier than in the last two games, but he did not do a good job of taking care of it. He didn't shoot well.

Matt Kopfler, whose play improved dramatically in the playoffs, was held scoreless in the first half and finished with only two points. Starter Brian Thigpen did not score, although he did grab a team-high eight rebounds.

That was as a poor offensive performance in the first half as we had all year," Ladner said. "(Yazoo City) is a good team, but we had good looks at the basket. We just couldn't get the shots to

Victims of their own porous shooting and ill-advised showboating, the Indians failed to put the game away in the first half, a fact not lost on Ladner.

felt fortunate when we went in at half," Ladner said. "I felt if we could get some shots to fall in the second half, we could chip away at the lead. But we didn't take care of the basketball."

Yazoo City, which plays West Jones in the semifinals Saturday night, scored the first four points of the second half to take a 34-15 lead. The Indians led by as many as 26 in the third quarter and 27 in the fourth quarter.

We have played teams as good as Yazoo City and beat them," Ladner said. "But at this level, you have to put it together at the right time.

Thompson was the only other Rock in double figures with 10

Phillips Jones came off the bench to lead the Indians with 15 points, 13 rebounds and six steals. Ron Newton also scored 15 points. Dale Edwards had

Wildcats split with Faulkner to start season

Pearl River Community College opened its home baseball season Friday by splitting with Faulkner State College.

The Indians from Bay Minette, Ala., crushed the Wildcats 16-2 in the first game, but the Wildcats took the nightcap 3-2 to post a 2-5 record.

The Wildcats will entertain Jefferson Davis in a doubleheader Friday, March 1 in Poplarville. Saturday, Pearl River will travel to New Orleans to take on Delgado, and on Tuesday, March 5, South Division play will start at East

"We are not in sync," said Jim Nightengale, the Wildcats' head coach. "We are making too many mental mistakes.'

Faulkner jumped to a 3-0 first inning lead over hurler Greg Boone. By the sixth inning the Wildcats cut the lead to 5-2. but the Indians then pounded Wildcat pitchers for the 16-2 decision.

In the second game, Brian Kramer was the winning pitcher, with Chgward Williams setting the stage for the victory by stealing third base with two outs in the seventh inning. Kevin Davis had a double for the Wildcats.

On Wednesday, the Wildcats lost a one-run lead in the ninth inning and then lost the game in the 10th as Jefferson Davis Community College rallied for a

The Wildcats had rallied from a 5-3 deficit with three runs in the eighth inning and carried a 6-5 lead in the bottom of the ninth.

JDCC led off the ninth with two solo homeruns.

Pearl River collected 10 hits. Glennie Thompson had three singles, Williams hit a triple and double, and Brian Pierce added two singles and Davis had a double.

Rick Whatman was the losing pitcher. The Wildcats will continue to use two separate lineups until division play

Deep and shallow bass patterns may work

This month the weather becomes the major factor in determining were bass may be located; if it's cold the fish will probably remain deep, but several days of warm sunshine will bring them shallow.

"Bass fishermen have to pay as much attention to the weather as they do to their depthfinders this month," says professional tournament angler Mickey Bruce, "because the fish will change depths according to the temperature.

"Normally this is a cold weather month and the bass will still be in their deep winter habitats, but three or four days of 'false spring' sunshine and warm temperatures will bring them up on rocky points or shal-

Bruce, who grew up fishing the deep, often clear waters of Lake Lanier in Georgia, has seen this type of behavior in bass often. In 1994 he won a winter tournament on Lanier by catching bass more than 60 feet deep; several days later. wafter Bright sunshine and warming temperatures, the fish were around boat docks and points less than 15 feet deep.

"When the bass are still deep this time of year, I suggest anglers look for cover along steep channel drops in larger tributary creeks," advises Bruce. "The main thing to look for will be baitfish, because bass will follow the bait.'

"This time of year, the bait will be concentrated, too, so it's easy to see on a depthfinder. Just criss-cross back and forth over a channel looking for bait and cover, because bass will be

The Evinrude pro prefer using 3/4 ounce jigging spoon or a 9/16 ounce jib and pork trailer when fishing deep structure and cover. Normally, he works both lures very slowly, especially the jigging spoon.

"With a spoon, you don't need much rod tip action to make it jump," Bruce says. "I just barely raise my rod because deep bass normally aren't very active."

Following three or four days of abnormally warm, bright weather, Bruce says it isn't uncommon for bass to move shallow on rocky points, riprap walls, or around boat docks where they are much more accessible to fishermen.

"It takes several days of this type of weather," he explains, but the fish will move shallow. I like to use crankbaits or Carolina rigs and work points that have a steep drop into deeper

Conference set for athletes

Mississippi junior and senior high athletes are invited to a March 19 athletes' conference in the Mississippi Coast Coliseum and Convention Center, Biloxi.

Stressing the theme "Winning Drug Free: A Natural High," the conference is designed to educate male and female athletes of all sports, including cheerleading, on the importance of being drug free, taking and encouraging important highway safety steps and developing positive leadership

Sponsored by the Mississippi Division of Public Safety Planning, the Biloxi Public School District and the Coast Coliseum and Convention Center, the conference will feature Keith Nord, a former Minnesota Viking football player; Rick Metzger, 1995 World Cup of Powerlifting gold medalist and 1994-95 national bench press champion; and Eric Chester, a former ESPN and Prime Sports Network commentator.

Conference workshops will cover Alcohol/Drugs and Athletes, Leadership, Nutrition and Body Image, Information for Coaches, Drunk Driving/ Traffic Safety, Steroids, Physical Performance, Cultural Differences and Eating Disorders. Also included will be a fitness exposition featuring the newest techniques to enhance winning via demonstrations of physical conditioning equipment and information on nutrition and exercises.

"Athletes, often looked upon as role models, have a particularly good opportunity to influence other students in positive behavior patterns," said Donald O'Cain, governor's representative for highway safety and Public Safety Planning's executive director. "This conference will help them to exhibit characteristics worth emulating and to enhance techniques of influencing others."

Reservations are limited to 2,500 participants, and the deadline for making reservations is March 15. A fee of $5 per person covers all costs, including lunch. Checks made out to the University of Southern Mississippi should be sent to Harriet Mauney, youth programs coordinator, Division of Public Safety Planning, Box 23039, Jackson 39225-3039. Mauney may be contacted by telephone at 359-7880.

USM students plan alternative spring break

University of Southern Mississippi students are preparing to scatter north and south for volunteer projects during spring break next month.

USM's Volunteer Resource Center is promoting its firstever Alternative Spring Break for the March 11-15 reprieve from classes. Projects are planned in Jackson and on the Mississippi Gulf Coast. About 18 students had signed up as of mid-February.

In Jackson, one group will help Habitat for Humanity volunteers build the Jackson Habitat's "100th House" March 9-13. Then, the group will help Operation Shoestring, a non-profit agency that helps disadvantaged families.

"We will be working with the children," said project organizer Angela Jones, 19, a sophomore marketing major form Jackson. "And we'll also be assisting the agency with different projects.'

On the Coast, volunteers will head north of Biloxi into the DeSoto National Forest March 9-10 to help build a nature trail for the National Forest Service. That group also will travel by boat to Ship Island March 11-12 to help repaint a cannon on the island for the National Park

The trips are open to anyone. 'We're trying to get a lot of people to go," Jones said.

One USM staffer who plans to participate in the Jackson project said she thinks the project is beneficial to young adults.

"Community service gives developing young people a chance to be a part of adult responsibilities and make things happen in the world, said Stephanie Millet, assistant director of the USM-based Mis-
